View in browser

FinancialPlanning

Retirement

September 18, 2024

By Rob Burgess
Reporter

Contrary to popular belief, there are other consequential races on the ballot this November besides the presidency.

For example, if Democrats retake the U.S. House of Representatives, the Automatic IRA Act of 2024, which proposes automatic enrollment into IRAs for most employees working for employers not currently sponsoring a retirement plan with opt-out features and auto-escalation, could pass. Some feel it's "long overdue," while others think it's a "nanny rule."

I hope you'll check it out, along with the rest of this week's stories.

As always, thank you for reading. Talk to you next Wednesday!

Connect with Rob:

TOP STORIES

RETIREMENT

This auto-IRA retirement bill has hope if Democrats win the House

While the Auto IRA Act of 2024 is "long overdue" for some, others feel it represents the "nanny state."

- Prudential kicks off advisor program to better serve Hispanic clients
  New Hispanic Market Certification Program launches this week to begin Hispanic Heritage Month.

- How advisors can ease client fears of outliving retirement income
  It's key for an advisor to have a firm grasp of clients' long-term goals, how much they are spending now and how much they plan to spend in the future.
- How financial advisors are using AI — and what their clients think about it
  Tech-savvy firms have found it useful for tasks including marketing, note-taking, summaries, transcriptions, follow-ups and modeling.
- How advisors should communicate the expected Fed rate cut to clients
  Advisors and industry experts say a historical perspective of the past and a long-ranging view of the future are key in this moment of change.

Read the latest in Retirement

SPONSOR CONTENT FROM DELOITTE

Retail investors may rely on GenAI for advice

Gen AI capabilities expected to change the mix of sources for trusted financial advice.

FINANCIAL PLANNING

You're receiving this email because you signed up for Editorial emails from Financial Planning.

If you no longer wish to receive these emails, you can opt out here.

To update the emails you want to receive, or to unsubscribe from our mailing list, please visit our Email Preference Center.

arizent

Arizent
One State Street Plaza, 27th Floor
New York, NY 10004

About | Subscriptions | Contact | Privacy Policy

Have questions or concerns? Contact Support

Follow us in real time: